FOR FINE JOB WORK
Call at the Journal Office.

Crop reports received by the California Associated Press show a most prosperous condition prevailing throughout California. The wheat, barley, oat and hay crops in many sections will be the largest for many years, and in nearly all the counties at least an average crop will be harvested. The fruit and grape crops are reported to be in the same promising condition, with a few exceptions in some localities, where penches have been attacked with curl-leaf, which will affect the crop to some extent. Apricots, also, in many cases, are reported to have been affected by the early rains, which prevented them setting fully. The acreage in cereals, fruits and grapes on the whole has been greatly increased, due to immigration, propitious weather, and the subdivision of large tracts into smaller holdings. In many counties experiments have been made in sugar-beet culture, and in all cases the results thus far have been eminently satisfactory.

The suggestion that President Harrison should appoint a western man to the vacancy in the Interstate Commerce Commission is a good one. It will undoubtedly be vigorously opposed, however, by the commercial interests of the east and particularly of New York. They will claim that Mr. Walker being an eastern man his successor should be, and they will doubtless insist also that both Judge Cooley and Mr. Morrison are western men. Still it ought not to be difficult to present an argument in favor of the Great West having a representative on the commission who would carry weight with the President.

Senator Colquitt, of Georgia, is one of the finest specimens of physical manhood in the Senate. He towers five inches above the average pedestrian, and his face is as strong intellectually as his body is in blood and sinew. He dresses neatly, in a rather clerical fashion, and his cleanly shaven face has a ministerial appearance. Colquitt is about 60 years of age and is not a rich man.

The Salt Lake Tribune, always an able and accurate exponent of Gentile sentiments in Utah, wants Justice Zane restored to the position of Chief Justice of the Utah Supreme Court. The Mormons hated Judge Zane with a peculiarly deep and intense hatred, and exulted when Mr. Cleveland removed him.

Robert Lincoln has grown stout of late and he looks much older than when he was Secretary of War. He is extremely fastidious about his attire, and looks more like a New York man of leisure than a Chicago lawyer. He is pleased at his appointment, but regrets the financial sacrifice he must make to accept it.

From 100 to 150 fourth-class Postmasters are being appointed daily. Of those, one-third are to fill vacancies, another third are appointed in the places of Postmasters removed for cause, and the other third to fill the places of those who have served about four years.

Vice-President Morton and family will spend the Summer at their beautiful residence at Rhinebeck, on the Hudson, and President and Mrs. Harrison are expected to pay them a visit during the Summer, remaining a week or ten days.

The President yesterday appointed Edward S. Lacey, of Michigan, as Comptroller of Currency and Timothy G. Phelps, of California, as Collector of Customs at San Francisco.

James McKinley, of San Francisco, brother of Congressman McKinley, of Ohio, has been recommended by the Pacific Coast delegation for Minister to the Sandwich Islands.

Among the passengers on the steamship Aller Wednesday for Bremen were Fred Grant and family, Mrs. U. S. Grant and Hon. Albert G. Porter, U. S. Minister to Italy.

The San Francisco Board of Trade has asked President Harrison to favorably consider the appointment of George C. Perkins as Postoffice Site Commissioner.

President Diaz evidently knows a good thing when he tastes it. In his message to the Mexican Congress he urges the admission of American land.

The London Telegraph prints prominently a letter proposing national recognition of Stanley's services upon his return from Africa.

The President has appointed Robert P. Porter, of New York, Superintendent of Census.

Growing Up With the Country.

Wm. H. Calkins, appointed Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Washington Territory, has served several terms as a Representative in Congress of the Thirteenth District of Indiana. He moved to Tacoma several months ago, and proposes to make his home there.

Free Passes and Free Transportation.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has issued orders instructing a large number of railroad companies, including many of the most important lines in the United States, to appear before it and make explanations in the matter of free passes and free transportation.

OFF WITH THEIR HEADS.

C. P. Huntington's Favorite Guillotine at Play.

The San Francisco Call says: C. P. Huntington's last visit to the Pacific Coast resulted in a very considerable reduction in the retained legal force of the railroad company. For many years prior to his last descent on San Francisco it has been the Southern Pacific's custom to keep retained at certain fixed annual salaries nearly all the legal luminaries of this Coast.

Year in and year out those retainers went on whether services were rendered or not, the understanding being however, that if at any time a firm's bill against the company aggregated more than the retainer, the difference was paid in good gold coin. But at that time the enemies of the big syndicate were legion and their law suits were whole calendars in extent. So bitter was the feeling against the railroad that it was actually forced to employ attorneys in every county its lines have traversed.

Now, however, the circumstances are altered. The company is not fighting or being fought by any one. There are about two dozen suits on it books. The big tax cases are practically disposed of; the damage claimants, if their claims are fair, obtain what they think is due them.

CHANGE OF POLICY.

The company, in fact, has entirely changed its policy in this regard, and is not so ready to go into Court over every trifling claim to fight over technicalities as it used to be. The result of this change has been that the swarms of attorneys who so long drew the company's pay have latterly had nothing to do. They used simply to draw their pay.

The last time Mr. Huntington visited the State he cast his eagle eye over the salary-list, and deprecating the multitude of attorneys that were retained, he straightway demanded to know what they did for their money. No one being able to tell him, he ordered the retainers of about two-thirds of the entire number to be cut down.

Thus, some of the biggest firms in the city, that for years enjoyed big fees in railroad gold, are now both able and willing to take any case against the Southern Pacific that may be offered them.

It is now rumored that further reductions are to take place—that other firms still retained are to have their services dispensed with. Interesting personal details are not available, but among those to be banished are said to be some of the luminaries who have fought for the Kentucky corporation in many a hard battle. But as Mr. Huntington puts it, "Why should we pay them when they are doing nothing for us?" and his diota goes.

ALL GOOD LAWFYERS.

Another reason why the old legal force is not required is that the company's officers are now as thoroughly cognizant of the laws as applying to their particular department as the most accomplished attorney, and consequently they are exceedingly careful and abundantly able to keep on the right side of the legal fence.

It was not to the law department alone that Mr. Huntington applied the pruning-knife on his last visit. He went over the entire payroll and sternly demanded of many an aged hanger-on the wherefore of his monthly stipend. There were numbers of ancient servitors, political, social and otherwise, friends of the late Charles Crocker or Governor Stanford, and ruthlessly were they sent to the right about.

One by one they were requested to visit the big brick building which they all know so well, and after having cooled their heels in the ante-room they were ushered into the presence chamber and there interrogated, and if satisfactory answers were not forthcoming they were guillotined without further order.

A SUCCESSFUL BLUFF.

Among the crowd whose presence was requested came one gentleman who realized too well the hollowness of his pretensions to a $200 per month salary, which he drew with a regularity and punctuality which put to the blush the best efforts of the sun and moon.

A shudder for correctness, he drew the nearest distinction between being in a company's service and being on its payroll. He was proud of having done nothing in sixteen years. With fear and trembling he sketched to the summons and waited on the magnate. In due season he was ushered into the office where Huntington sat at a desk poring over a long statement containing lists of names and figures.

A GREAT MISTAKE.

The Carson Tribune says: The people of Carson Valley are at length realizing the fact that they made a great mistake in not aiding the V. & T. R. R. Company when the proposition was made by that corporation to run a line through Douglas county. Had they properly subsidized the institution, the town of Genoa would to-day have been one of the most prosperous in the State, whereas it is just a nice little fruit center and stopping place for hay teams. Walley's Springs would have been a grand sanitarium and that property worth a million or more, and ranch property would have been as high as that in the much boomed lower California land, whereas to-day it is held at about the same rates as a quarter of a century ago, and all owing to the shortsightedness of the early settlers. True there are live men owning Carson Valley land, such as Springmeyer, Dangberg, Cohn and others, but they are in the minority and should they start a railroad project, the envious many would doubtless fight the proposition, but come it must, and that splendid valley will, during the next twenty years, be quoted as the very garden of the Sierra.

Drummer (to fellow-passenger who has produced a bottle of beer)—Here, take my corkscrew. Fellow-passenger—Thank you, but how can I reciprocate? This bottle only holds enough for one. Drummer—All right. Pass it right over to me, then.

—Texas Siftings.

THE CHAMPION EATER.

He Devoured Potato Custards and Sugar Cane by the Cartload.

On the plantation of Capt. W. H. Stokes, in Twigg county, there resides a white tenant who promises to become the champion eater of Georgia without any opposition. The man's name is Ebb Floyd, and he is said to be a short, stout man of 30 years of age and of a jolly disposition.

Floyd first attracted the attention of his neighbors at a log rolling which took place about a month ago. On that occasion, after finishing the work the workmen sat down to a supper, and before them, among other things, were placed fifteen large potato custards. This dish was a favorite of Floyd's, and the fact was known to several of his friends, who were present at the supper. One of them, in a banter, offered to bet with Floyd that he could not eat half the custards at the same meal, and was very much surprised when his farmer friend took him up, and agreed to eat ten of them without stopping.

Fling up the dishes in a circle, he commenced upon the spread. Five were soon eaten, and then the fun began with a rush. One after another disappeared slowly but surely, until the magic number of ten came to hand, and all present were in an uproar.

Straightening himself out for the fray, the farmer commenced on the home-stretch. Ten large sweet potato custards inside of him and five awaiting the attack presented a ludicrous scene. It was agony, but three soon sped away on their journey to meet their fellows, and gradually the last of the fifteen found itself on the way down to the depths. He had accomplished the feat, and the prize offered in the bet was his, and his only.

This was, however, only a starter for Mr. Floyd, and so, therefore, he chose a day for another effort, and again he came out victorious.

This time it was a chewing contest, and sugar cane was the object of his attention.

After a day of frolic and fun, and after indulging in a hearty dinner, with turkey and stuffing to his heart's content, he visited a house where he expected to eat supper and remain all night.

This time a crowd had gathered to see the Twigg wonder, and an abundance of good, juicy cane had been set in the room ready for the contest.

As a preliminary, fourteen full stalks were chewed before supper, and then all hands sat down to an old time Thanksgiving supper, with possum and yams and plenty of rich gravy.

Finishing supper, the host announced to his friends that the contest was ready to be opened, and asked if any one present wanted to make bets on the result.

A school teacher in the crowd suggested that a speedy trial be made, and offered to wager that Floyd could not chew three stalks in ten minutes. This was accepted, and the schoolmaster set before him three large, fine stalks and called time.

Two of them were disposed of in five minutes, and the third one saw its fate in two more minutes, making the farmer the winner by three minutes.

This settled the question of speed, and then some one offered to bet two to one that Floyd could not drink a quart of the juice down without stopping. He was a wiser man in just a minute later, for, catching up a jug, Floyd drained it of three pints of the sweet stuff.

Every one was satisfied and he was the hero of the hour, when a small hand came mill was brought into the room and twenty stalks were crushed, giving out three gallons of juice.

This was a startling announcement, and it had the effect of making Floyd a lion among his friends, when they were taken aback by the statement that he could chew twenty stalks before he retired and not feel the result.

Every one laughed at him, and all thought him to be jesting when he laid out twenty of the largest stalks of cane near his chair and commenced on the work of grinding out the juice with his molars.

One by one the stalks were taken up and stripped, chewed and the pieces thrown aside, and in exactly one hour and fifteen minutes the little pile was exhausted and the man was ready to quit and retire from the field.

The news of his feat spread far and near in his neighborhood, and now he is the wonder of the section. His friends in Twigg county pit him against any man in the world for the championship and a prize of $100.—Macon (Ga.) Telegraph.

Superstitions of Negroes.

Burn old shoes and the snakes will squirm away from that place.

Shoes must never be put on a shelf higher than the head of the wearer.

To keep shoes, even after they are past wearing, will keep good luck about a place.

If you stub the right toe you will be welcomed; if you unfortunately stub the left you may know that you aren't wanted.

Burnt shoe soles and feathers are good to cure a cold in the head, say old nannies, and parched shoe soles and hogs' hoofs is a good mixture also for coughs.

The older dusky nannies believe that when their shoes come unaided and keep coming untied it is a true sign that their sweethearts are talking and thinking about them.

Good luck to the child who draws on her stocking wrong side out. If she takes it off and rights it before 12 o'clock she may feel assured of getting soon a nice present.

A more absurd fancy is to believe that when any one accidentally spits on the old shoe a child wears this gives assurance that the child will soon have brand new footgear.—Exchange.

Exchanged Wives for Better or Worse.

In Washington county two married couples were living only a short distance apart, and by neighborly intercourse each man became enamored of the other's wife, while the ladies soon learned to love the other's husband, and thus became estranged from their first love. When matters took this shape it came to be noticeable by all concerned, and many evenings passed while each husband was at the other's house pouring out his tale of love and fidelity into the willing ears of the listeners. Finally one of the husbands, a little bolder than the other, proposed an exchange. This was met with gladness by all the parties interested, and the proposing party consented to the trade on condition that the other would allow him $5 in cash and seven bushels of Quaker peas. This was readily consented to, and the trade was made, each wife going to the other's home, carrying with her the children, and are now living in the sweetest domestic felicity. They will try to have the courts make the trade legal.—Atlanta Chronicle.

A Good Time to Fulfill His Promise.

"Dear John," wrote the wife, "I am sorry to say Willie fell out of a swing yesterday and disabled himself. He will not be able to use his arms for a month—so the doctor says. He is getting along all right, but it makes him restless to stay indoors. When you return from the city please bring him something he can amuse himself with."

"Willie," said the father, kindly, as he patted the little boy consolingly on the head the next day. "I have brought you that drum I promised you a year or two ago you should have some time."

SHREWD ADVERTISERS.

Readers of the newspapers of the day cannot fail to be impressed with the fact that the modern advertiser is progressive. He is compelled to be, else competitors more active in the invention of new advertising devices, will outstrip him in public favor.

The value of printers' ink judiciously and scientifically employed cannot be overestimated; it is the medium whereby a meritorious discovery is raised from local fame to a position in the public esteem. Hence the columns of the newspapers are daily used by hosts of advertisers and in the competition which is indulged in to attain the desired end, the reader is oftentimes amused.

The greatest of American advertisers, and it may as well be said in the world, is H. H. Warner of Rochester, N. Y., whose name has been made everywhere familiar in connection with Warner's Safe Cure, widely advertised because of its merit in the prevention and cure of kidney diseases.

By printer's ink this great discovery has achieved world-wide popularity and thousands feel grateful for the knowledge thus acquired of this greatest of modern remedies.

Furthermore, the public has been taught that disorders of the lungs, brain, heart and liver which have hitherto been regarded and treated by the profession as distinctive diseases are not so in fact, but are the attending symptoms of disease of the kidneys; therefore, the consumptive, the apoplectic, paralytic, and the sufferer from nervous disorders can be restored to health by Warner's Safe Cure, which will remove the true cause of those disorders by restoring the kidneys to healthy action.

The advertising methods employed by this greatest of advertisers are invariably instructive and, although the reader may sometimes be "caught" in reading an advertisement, which was not at first supposed to be such, there is nevertheless no time lost since useful information is invariably gained concerning life's great problem.

Anxious For a Rest.

Boston Herald: Every Democratic officeholder in the country thinks President Harrison ought to take a vacation.

"Hello, Brown! I hear you have a new typewriter. Is she good-looking?" "Good-looking! Why, man, no; my wife selected her." "Why, how did she come to select her?" "Well, you see, my wife was a typewriter herself before I married her."—Life.

THE ALTAR.

VALUABLE INFORMATION.

A Magnanimous Democrat—Read, Ponder, Speculate and "Go for 'Em."

Through the courtesy of an attache of the Carson Mint, the Enterprise gives a list of the several positions held in that institution and the remuneration for the alleged labor performed. The gentleman who thus places the Enterprise under obligations to him is a staunch Democrat, who claims that his only object in so doing is to help the many who are after his job to realize what it is worth when they get it.

There is at the present time in the Carson Mint about $1,600,000 of gold in shoe bars, being about 998 1/2 fine, and $0,000 ounces in silver bullion—a stock sufficient to keep the Mint running four years, at least, with the natural inflow of metal from this State.

BANK OF NEVADA.

Annual Report of One of Reno's Strong Institutions.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Bank of Nevada was held yesterday, nearly every share of the capital stock being represented. The Board of Directors submitted a report showing the gross earnings for the past year to have been $20,100, and after paying all expenses, taxes, etc., net earnings of 12 per cent., out of which the Board recommended a dividend of 6 per cent. and the carrying over of the remainder to the Reserve Fund. The report was adopted, and M. D. Foley, Daniel Meyer, Geo. Russell, J. N. Evans, M. E. Ward, C. C. Powning and L. Abrahams unanimously re-elected Directors for the ensuing year. Subsequently M. D. Foley was re-elected President, M. E. Ward Vice President, and R. S. Osburn, Secretary and Cashier.

The Bank, as shown by its statement, is doing a prosperous business, and growing as rapidly as the country. It calculates at an early day to obtain a suitable location and build a fine bank building. Its assets and liabilities balance at $285,000, and it has deposits of $95,600. The present capital, paid up, is now $120,000, and a call of $30,000 more is pending and being paid in, which practically makes the cash capital $150,000.

Beet Sugar a Success.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—The great success of the Watsonville refinery has exceeded all expectations of the originator, Claus Spreckels, as regards the prospects of producing beet sugar. He now proposes to establish several other factories on the coast. This success has led the Spreckels firm to organize a new company, to be known as the Occident Beet Sugar Company, which was incorporated with a capital stock of $5,000,000. The Directors of the new company are Claus and John D. Spreckels, Louis Sloss and M. Ehrman. [Washoe county and Reno ought to be able to do something in this line.]

An Attractive Man.

The Enterprise, of Thursday, says: Sam Wright, of Carson, the next Superintendent of the Mint, was in town yesterday. Sam is not a good looking man, by any means, but he seemed to be the most attractive man we have seen in Virginia for many days. He was a perfect human magnet, and the crowd that followed him swelled like a snowball rolling down hill during his progress around town. P. B. Ellis, the next assayer of the Mint, accompanied Mr. Wright as a sort of negative pole.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. feb. 21-swt-ly.

WHAT ON EARTH

Is the reason people will not, can not or do not see any difference in cheap nostrums put up by cheap John houses or irresponsible parties at enormous profits, rather than take a medicine of world wide reputation and one that is giving universal satisfaction at equal price? No medicine in the world is giving such unparalleled satisfaction for purifying the blood as BLOOD PURIFIER AND BLOOD MAKER, and every bottle that does not do its work will cost you nothing.

These Are Sad Days for Ohio.

Washington Post: One of the most affecting scenes of modern times is witnessed by him who stands where he can see the whole State of Ohio hovering over the one office that has found its way within her borders. We have seen nothing like it since the year of the chicken cholera, when all the hens stood around the one remaining chick and tried to look as comforted as the condition would permit.

The Break in the Solid South.

Philadelphia Inquirer: There will be Democratic Southern States, devoted chiefly to farming and commerce, and Republican Southern States, in which mines, mills, and factories will flourish. This is the way the Solid South will be broken, and anybody who will give a little attention to the progress of events will see the breaking forces in full activity right now.

THE OLD RELIABLE FURNITURE HOUSE OF JOHN Breuner is well worthy of note, and we take pleasure in devoting to it due space and attention. Mr. Breuner has been engaged in this business for thirty-three years and conducts one of the largest business houses in California. He manufactures and deals in all kinds of furniture and bedding, and has established a most enviable celebrity for the excellence of the goods turned out by his house. He carries a very large stock, embracing all grades and kinds of furniture and quotes prices that defy competition. His goods are all first-class, made of the best material and first-class workmanship, and the people cannot find a more advantageous house to deal with. He carries a supply of photographs of all goods, which will be sent free of charges to any address, and by this method people at a distance can select goods at home as well as in person at his house, and may rest assured of being satisfactorily and fairly treated by him. This is a most convenient and pleasant method for those abroad, and we recommend a trial of it.

A MODEL'S EXPERIENCE.

A WOMAN IN BOSTON WHO HAS POSED FOR FAMOUS ARTISTS.

She Was Madonna, Venus, Helen, Magdalen and Other Celebrities—Many Women's Heads Painted on Her Lovely Shoulders—Americans Are Bewildered.

A homely visaged, well formed Italian woman, about 35 years of age, occupies a suite of rooms on Greene street, and gets a living by doing fancy needle work and taking lodgers. Her name is Margherita Campelli. Her husband, formerly a tenor singer, but latterly an organ grinder, died two years ago, leaving her a black veil. As for her husband, that was paid by the city. But Margherita was not to be cast down. She had seen better days. She would see them again. The result is that she is now comfortably situated, and is growing more prosperous every year.

Years ago, before time cross plowed her face with wrinkles, Margherita was the pride of Paris, and earned a luxurious living by posing as a model for sculptors and painters. She was able to earn anywhere from 100 to 500 francs a week "on her shape" alone, and on her rounded shoulders and above her well molded limbs rest the faces of some of the most celebrated belles and heiresesses, and for that matter, queens and princesses of Europe. In short, her body was the form in which the celebrated Parisian artists breathed the breath of life and beauty, and having done this, they surrounded the trunk with the heads of their patrons, all of whom were pleased to be associated with her symmetry, which none of them possessed.

THREE DOZEN MADONNAS. When a reporter called she was engaged in the agreeable occupation of washing the dinner dishes, but, although attired in a simple "Mother Hubbard" satine wrapper, the "human form divine" which she possessed was so very apparent that it was quite evident the artists had made no mistake in their selection.

"I don't look much like a Madonna, do I?" was her smiling greeting as she stuck out a wet hand for the reporter to grasp. "I think I am more nearly akin to Venus rising from the sea just now, and I have sat for both many a day."

"Which do you like the better, Venus or the Madonna?" asked the reporter. "Oh, Venus, to be sure, though Madonna poses paid me better, but they were too stiff. I don't like standing all the forenoon on a marble slab holding a 'dummy' baby to my breast. It makes my arms ache. I was never lucky enough to be a mother, and this fondling of infants comes hard. Still, I did pretty well. I have been the model for at least three dozen Madonnas in my day. Six of them are now in Rome, and the rest have gone to England and America. Last year I saw myself in three different attitudes in as many paintings at a loan exhibit in New York. I was told the cost of those three pictures was $20,000. I wish I had the money, but I am no artist. I am only a model. Still, I like to know that the rich people admire me, even if they do not know who I am."

"Now tell me about the Venus," said the reporter. "My! but that was gay. I liked to be Venus. I acted natural, you see. I just sat down and threw out my arms and gave myself up to love. One artist paid me 500 francs for six days' sitting for Venus. One hundred dollars! Just think of it! It was the easiest money I ever earned. But he got 40,000 francs for the job, so he need not complain."

"Have you been a model for anything but Madonnas and Venuses?" was asked.

"Well, loaded shoulders. Let me tell you. I went to Paris in 1873 and danced in a theatre. Daytimes I sat as a model for at least twenty artists, and had my figure painted in all kinds of postures and attitudes. I was Proserpine in two pictures, Helen of Troy in five, Cleopatra in two, Hecuba in four, Andromeda in one, and so on through all the list of celebrated historical, biblical and mythologic characters. I worked as a model and got good pay until 1884, when I was married, and my husband objected to my getting a living that way."

"What was your husband's occupation?"

"He was a musician." "How long ago did he die?" "Last year. He heard there was a big field for musicians in America, and came over, hoping to make a fortune. His failure broke his heart. Since his death I have tried to get work as a model here, but your artists do not seem to care for me. I am afraid I am getting old and embonpoint."

"How many faces are now on your shoulders, do you suppose?" was asked. "Over 300. It is somewhere near 400, if I remember rightly. There are three of the Rothschild women, Mrs. Mackay, Judie and the ex-Empress Victoria of Germany among them. Bernhardt wanted me to act as a model for her pictures, but the artist convinced her that she was too skinny. Sarah Bernhardt is a beautiful woman for all that, and just as liberal as sunlight."

"Did you ever act as a model for an American woman?" "Yes, five or six in all. Mr. Bennett brought a woman to Palermo's studio while I was a model. I think her name was Bell, and she was a sister or relative of Mr. Bennett. I also sat as a model for a relative of Minister Bancroft when he was in Germany."

"Anybody else?" "I remember a few more, but the names are gone. The Americans who go to Paris to get their portraits made do not patronize the best artists as a rule, though they pay big prices. It is shameful how you people are deceived by cheap artists. They have plenty of money, and should get the best. The fact is, they are imposed upon by cheap work." She chatted pleasantly about French art for a few minutes longer and then resumed her household duties.—Boston Cor. Globe-Democrat.

The Supreme Court Bible. The supreme court Bible is a small, black, velvet covered octavo. It has been used in the administration of every oath since 1803. Every chief justice and every associate justice of the United States has held this little sacred tome in taking oath of office. Many thousands of lawyers have held it, and to write the names of the men who have touched its covers would be to name the men who have made the bench and bar of the United States illustrious. It was printed in London in 1769, and is today but little the worse for wear.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

About Diamonds.

A diamond, beside being the queen of gems, is positively the most beautiful thing that nature has ever conceived. When art reveals its hidden perfections it is the only "thing of beauty" that "is a joy forever," as it is practically indestructible. Time will dim the luster and wear away the fiber of gold, but the diamond will go on sparkling for all time. For aught we know the diamond that sparkles on the white fingers of the belle of today may have scintillated as the eye of some Hindoo god thousands of years ago. Most people imagine that diamonds have a classification like other commodities, worth so much per carat, according to perfection, brilliancy and purity, running through as a dozen grades, but there is no greater mistake. Strange as it may seem to the uninitiated, no two diamonds are exactly alike, but each has a virtue and a value peculiarly its own. It is just as rare to see two individuals exactly alike in face, form and feature as it is to see two diamonds. The idea, also, that a dealer in diamonds can tell by looking at a gem its exact value is nonsense. A diamond has to be studied. While the aid of a glass will help to discover the slightest flaw or imperfection, it does not point out its true value by a long way. Men who handle money constantly can detect a light coin by simply handling and examining casually, but a fine diamond has got to be studied from all points before a safe estimate can be put upon its value. Shape, size, perfection of cutting and such matters cut an important figure in a diamond's value.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Lesson in Etiquette.

The following lesson in street etiquette may contain a useful hint for more than one young man who may never have looked at the matter in the light in which it was forcibly brought to the attention of a thoughtful brother.

A young man whom we will call John stood in a doorway of one of the crowded streets of a large city. Another young man, with a young woman leaning on his arm, passed along the street.

"Hullo, Mary!" called John, from the doorway, loudly and familiarly to the young woman.

The young man with her stopped, excused himself and left the young woman at a milliner's shop near by. Then he went back to the one called John, who still stood in the doorway, and asked him what he meant by his impertinence.

"What do you mean by impertinence?" angrily asked John.

"You insulted the lady I was with," was the reply.

"I didn't do anything but say, 'Hullo, Mary!' And anyway, don't you know she's my sister?"

"Yes, I know that, but you had no right to attract attention to her on a crowded street by hollering at her. Do you suppose the other fellows and the crowd knew that you were her brother? What would they think of a girl thus accosted?"

"Never thought of that," said the brother, slowly. "Well, I'll look out next time."—Youth's Companion.

A Little Chap's "Nerve."

A distressing accident happened in the yard at Pocatello, Orma Tolmie, a boy about 12 years old, was crushed in a shocking manner by the cars, resulting in his death a few hours after. Orma and a younger brother, in company with several other small boys, went down the track to play, and they were jumping on and off the cars as the yardmen were switching. The men ordered the boys off the cars and tried to keep them away, but they kept jumping on until finally Orma in some way got caught between the wheels and was ground down, cutting off the left arm near the shoulder, and frightfully mangling the left leg between the knee and thigh. Everything possible was done for the boy, but there was no hope of saving his life, and at 10 o'clock, about six hours after the accident, he died, apparently suffering but little, although so dreadfully mangled. The father of the boy works in the car shops here, and he was notified of the accident immediately. As the wounded boy lay on the bed, his mother came into the room and burst out crying, as only a mother can. Orma looked over at her and said: "Mamma, don't cry; go out of the room so you can't see me. All through the terrible ordeal the little hero bore up wonderfully, and showed a grit worthy the best knight of ancient chivalry days."—Salt Lake Tribune.

Deceived About Complexions. "Mam'selle Chic" says women should be more particular in choosing the colors which set off to best advantage what charms they possess, especially when they have passed the point which they rarely own of thirty years. They all seem impressed with a fallacious idea that a good complexion once a good complexion forever. More particularly is this true of those who possessed an unusually good complexion in their youth. Mam'selle remembers a case which illustrates this perfectly. A woman of some thirty odd summers and winters had a habit of recommending to every other woman, young or old, a certain cream for the skin, accompanying her recommendation with the following words: "I tell you this because it has served so well for me. I may not have anything else, but certainly I have a good complexion." And she believed it, while her skin was yellow and blotchy and not smooth. Her contemporaries did affirm that in her girlhood her skin was a marvel of waxen purity. And so we deceive ourselves, and go on wearing unbecoming things.—New York Telegram.

Birds Dazed by the Light. The attraction of lighthouses for birds is a very curious phenomenon. It is said that just before the Charleston earthquake all the lighthouses along the coast as far north as Cape May were enveloped by clouds of agitated birds. Many wonderful scenes are witnessed at the lighthouses on some parts of the British coast during the season of migration. Sometimes when the moon is suddenly hidden by a bank of clouds the lanterns of the lighthouses are the point to which the stream of migrants hasten, and where, in a confused, fluttering throng, they beat against the glass like moths round a candle, and fly to and fro, utterly bewildered and completely lost. They seem to have no idea of their true course, and fly aimlessly about, many killing themselves against the glass, others falling into the water below. The light men are alert on these occasions, and capture numbers of the poor, lost travelers with handnets. Many of the birds are too tired or too dazed to move, and allow themselves to be taken by the hand as they sit on the balcony.—Advocate.

The Supreme Court Bible. The supreme court Bible is a small, black, velvet covered octavo. It has been used in the administration of every oath since 1803. Every chief justice and every associate justice of the United States has held this little sacred tome in taking oath of office. Many thousands of lawyers have held it, and to write the names of the men who have touched its covers would be to name the men who have made the bench and bar of the United States illustrious. It was printed in London in 1769, and is today but little the worse for wear.—Pittsburg Dispatch.
